Congress began its session to-day, which will continue till midsummer.

There were 300 miles of railway built in Wisconsin during the year 1881. There are now 2,433 miles of road in the State.

Governor Rusk's message will be very brief, it is said, and will therefore not be overladen with statistical matter. So be it.

Ex-President Hayes lost $250 on his Dakota wheat speculation. He still has enough money left to keep him from going into bankruptcy.

The Giteau trial has been adjourned Saturday. When it is ended, and the trial is also ended, the country will have occasion to rejoice.

There will be just enough "inspiration" for the jury to hang Giteau within a month or six weeks. This will be one of the substantial blessings of 1882.

The ladies of Washington have organized a secret society called the "Guaranteed Angels." Judging from its name, San B. Anthony is barred from ever coming a member.

The Atlanta Cotton Exposition lost out $160,000. The expenses were a little over $250,000, and the receipts only $135,000. But then, Atlanta has demonstrated the fact that it can hold a cotton exposition.

Here, Black coming out as a presidential candidate, will probably make "blood the moon" in the Democratic camp. Tilden can't condone any such a thing as Black's candidacy. He doesn't propose to recapture during the next two years for nothing.

There are three or four Democrats who are anxious for the Democratic nomination in 1881. Regardless of the experience of the past they are ambitious for glory, and can't learn of McClellan, Seymour, Tilden, and Hancock, who have been laid in political graves.

It is rather a pleasant reflection that a railway passenger was killed in this State during 1881. When it is considered that three millions of passengers are carried in Wisconsin in 1881, this becomes all the more astonishing. It is becoming safer to travel on railway lines than to stay at home.

Among the sensations and marvelous stories which come over the prairies in the Far West, is that of the discovery of a solid bed of crystallized soda feet thick, containing fifty million feet of that valuable article. It is said that this bonanza is in the Territory of Wyoming, near the Union Pacific.

The Chicago Journal says: "The State of Wisconsin has suffered severely in the year just closed by the loss of her distinguished citizens. There died during 1881, Chief Justice Edward G. Ryan, of the Supreme Court, one of the most eminent lawyers and jurists of the North-west." For the information of the Journal we will say that Chief Justice Ryan died in 1881. His death occurred October, 1880.

Postmaster General Howe took charge the department on Wednesday. The course which he says he proposes to pursue is given in a newspaper interview: "I have determined that, as a fundamental principle, I will give whatever money Congress gives me to make the postal service as efficient as possible. It shall my aim not to spend more money than is appropriated for the use of my department. With the maintenance of my rank I have no acquaintance. While I am in the Senate the postal department must be one of the few important matters on which I did not serve. I am not at all familiar with the history of the star route prosecutions. I have paid attention to the reports of the cases as they have run through the papers."

The Gazette has frequently noted the increased interest taken in this country in the raising of silk-worms' eggs, and the good work the Woman's Silk Culture Association was doing in the way of encouraging this important industry. There is a stronger argument than ever why this association should continue its labors, and why it should receive the strongest encouragement. A short time ago, as stated at the time by the Gazette, four Italian merchants bought 250,000 cards of silk-worms' eggs, each card containing 1000 eggs, the whole valued at $250,000, and shipped them from Japan to Milan, Italy. They were taken from an Italian to New York, over the Central and Union Pacific in four cars, and the shipment was the most valuable in the line of merchandise—that was ever made in this country. This circumstance should be considered to advance the interest in the silk culture associations. These Italians were compelled to ship the silk-worm eggs over eighteen thousand miles, and if it pays them to do this, to travel around three quarters of the globe and at the same time contribute to middlemen, it would surely pay Americans to go into the business of raising the eggs and sell them in this country. It has been demonstrated that the silk-worm eggs raised here are of as good quality as those conveyed at such enormous outlay of money, time, and trouble, from Japan to Italy. There could be no stronger argument advanced why American girls should engage in the business of raising silk-worm eggs, than the fact that four Italian gentlemen made it pay to buy the eggs in Japan and ship them eighteen thousand miles to the manufactory.

Only two or three days ago the Gazette received from Atlanta, Georgia, a copy of the Daily Constitution of that city, which contained an interview with Mr. John W. Ryckman, the Secretary of the Atlanta Cotton Exposition. Ryckman had been charged with some crooked business in connection with his official duties, and the interview was to set him right, and according to his brief talk with a newspaper reporter, he had not been engaged in any crookedness. We had hardly got through reading the interview in the Constitution, before Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly brought us a portrait and a biographical sketch of John Ryckman. All at once he seemed to spring into fame, at least to be much talked about, on account of the alleged crookedness in his transaction with the Cotton Exposition. The Gazette says this much of Mr. Ryckman, because he was a Wisconsin boy, having been born in Milwaukee in 1851—only twenty-seven years ago—and also because he married his wife in Janesville, a Miss Dunn. He is a young man of many good qualities, and with a well balanced mind, an ambition that is well directed, and proper industry, he would make a mark in certain lines of business. But he seems to be restless, and while he has much persistence he does not appear to use it with skill. He has been up and he has been down several times in a very few years, and his friends in Wisconsin, and those of Janesville who know him, will hope that there is no truth in the report that he has been guilty of swindling the Atlanta Cotton Exposition.

HOW A CONGRESSMAN'S TIME IS WASTED.

A few days ago Congressman Kasson, of Iowa, was interviewed in regard to the amount of labor it required to answer the letters he received from his constituents, and the answers he gave to the questions propounded by the reporter, should be known by everybody, especially those who think that a Congressman is good for is to run to the different departments in Washington attending to private business of his constituents. It has come to this, as will be seen by the statements of Mr. Kasson, that if a Congressman undertakes to attend strictly to the answering of correspondence on private matters, and running to the various departments hunting for offices or trying to get pensions for his constituents, he would be compelled to abandon his public and more important duties and become nothing but a deer of chores. But Mr. Kasson says:

One thing is certain; unless something is done to systematize the pension business Congress will be obliged to furnish every Western Congressman, at least, a clerk to attend to his share of it. The claim agents, it appears, sent out circular letters to their clients, telling them that if they write to their representative, urging him to hurry up matters in the departments, their cases will be made "special," and they will get their money all the sooner. So we are loaded down with letters of this sort from our constituents, and the result is a perpetual worry to us and a blockade in the pension office.

In answer to the question as to how he found time for committee or legislative work, Mr. Kasson said:

"Well, I have adopted a system. All the letters I receive which do not require immediate attention I lay aside, and every Saturday I devote myself to them. I take my bundle and start out in the morning, and during the day I visit every department that is necessary. Saturday night and Sunday I have a stenographer here, and I dictate the replies to my weekly budget; and between us we usually manage to get the docket clear by Monday evening or Tuesday morning."

This system, which Mr. Kasson has adopted, and which all other Congressmen have been compelled to adopt, is to spend from one-half to two-thirds of their time in attending to private matters for their constituents. It is very plainly the duty of a Congressman to attend to some of that business and it ought not to be neglected, and they try hard to represent their constituents in these private affairs, but there are thousands of little chores which a Congressman is called on to do which in justice to him, and a regard for human nature, should not be demanded. "But how can I help it?" asks Mr. Kasson. "As I go about my district canvassing one will say to me: 'now I have a little matter there in Washington that I am not satisfied about, and I want you to look into it.' Of course I do it. People out in my country think that a Congressman can do almost anything if he tries, and few of them realize that if the heads of departments and bureaus were to make cases 'special' at the request of every Congressman, there would soon be none except 'special cases.'"

It is said that one member of the House who has served first and last more than ten years, never attends more than one committee meeting a session and it is a notorious fact that he never takes any part in the deliberations of the House except to cast his vote with his party, and to advocate some measure for the benefit of his district and of some constituent. He spends all his time in doing chores, and is virtually the Washington errand boy of his constituents.

With this load of private business on hand, with hundreds of letters to answer every day, the Congressman must get through the best he can, and if the answers to constituents' letters are sent in the handwriting of stenographers, they must not wonder for it is the only way possible for the Congressman to wade through the mass of correspondence which is daily piled upon his table.

CLOSING IN.

An Exciting Session Yesterday—The Evidence All In.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The last syllable of testimony in the case of the United States against Giteau has been given. Nothing remains to be done save to sum it all up. This the lawyers and Judge will do so speedily that it is believed the jury will be considering the case one week from to-day. The belief that their conclusion will be quickly reached and that it will be unfavorable to the accused grows stronger every hour. The evidence adduced by the prosecution is overwhelming, and no man who has listened to it can resist the conclusion that the assassin is, according to the standard of insanity established by it, sane and responsible.

In the trial yesterday Mr. Scoville made a motion for the admission of further evidence to prove the insanity of the prisoner. A Dr. McFarland, of Illinois, was to prove from what he had read in the papers that Giteau was insane, and some government detectives were to testify to the same from interviews held with him soon after the assassination. Other witnesses would declare that he had acted in a crazy manner a few days before he committed the crime. Judge Cox allowed Chief Brooks, of the Secret Service, to testify, but his evidence was of no benefit to the prisoner, and a Dr. Ford, who was ready to swear to Giteau's insanity, was not permitted to testify. The prosecution then submitted to the court the points for the instruction of the jury, and the defense were allowed till Saturday to present their prayers for the same purpose. Giteau was unusually vituperative, and seems to be the only person concerned who does not consider his life in jeopardy. The court has adjourned until Saturday.

THE SOLID SOUTH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The Bourbons from all over the South are reviling Mahone, and display extreme trepidation at constant outcropping of an inclination to follow in his footsteps on the part of prominent men in other Southern States. There is already a prevailing suspicion among the Bourbons here that the heaven is beginning to work in Tennessee, Georgia, and North Carolina, and now comes the climax from Louisiana. The interview of the Hon. E. John Ellis, in which he comes out squarely for a reform in Louisiana, has reached the capital, and causes much comment among the judges and colonels from the Gulf States. It is believed among Republicans very generally, that the break in the solid South will soon extend all along the line, and there are strong indications of a split on the tariff issues between the Democratic party and Louisiana Democrats.

OBITUARY.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., January 4.—A special to the Times announces the death of C. C. Clay, at his country residence near Huntsville, Ala., Tuesday. He was buried at Huntsville yesterday, with great pomp. Deceased was a United States Senator from Alabama before the war, and a Confederate State Senator during the war.

New York, January 4.—Dr. John W. Draper, the eminent scientist and author, died this morning at Hastings, on the Hudson.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The Standard says the disorganization in American securities here yesterday amounted almost to a panic.

The News says the fall in American stocks yesterday may produce temporary trouble, but can hardly cause, as yet, a serious crash.

THE RUSSIAN MISSION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 4.—The rumor of last night that John C. New will be appointed Minister to Russia, to succeed Foster, has gained strength to-day, and is accorded almost universal credence, especially as Senator Harrison tacitly admits that it is correct.

THE REFUNDING BILL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Senator Hill, of Colorado, said to-day that he was inclined to believe that Senator Sherman's 3 per cent. refunding bill would pass the Senate. He thought it would be feasible to fund at this rate if banks were compelled to take them and received certain concessions to compensate them in matter of taxes. The Senator thought there was a growing tendency to fund the debt at a low rate and not to pay it off so rapidly as had been done. This involved the reduction of taxes. The Senator does not believe there will be any silver legislation this session.

BEECHER'S BLUNDERBUS.

New York, Jan. 3.—The Brooklyn people are a good deal aroused over the remarks that Mr. Beecher is reported to have made in his last Sunday's sermon, to the effect that there was debauchery in the public schools. The board of education to-day addressed a letter to the divine requesting him to make a more specific statement of the facts in his possession, and also desiring to know when he could receive a committee of the board to talk the matter over, and whether he meant to accuse any of the members of the outgoing board. Mr. Beecher is out of town at present, and consequently could not be interviewed to-day; but he has aroused such a din that it will speedily be necessary for him to come with his facts, or else to confess that he has been either greatly misunderstood or shockingly misinformed.

FITZ JOHN PORTER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The friends of Fitz John Porter are very much elated at the frank avowal of General Grant that Porter had been wronged, and ought to be vindicated. They expect to get a bill for Porter's reinstatement through this Congress now without much difficulty.

A prominent Republican said to-night that General Grant's change of opinion would not influence Senator Logan to reverse his judgment and favor a bill to reinstate Porter. He said Logan may, out of respect for Grant, remain silent, but he will not vote for such a bill.

GRANT'S NEW CHURCH.

New York, Jan. 4.—A prominent member of the Madison Avenue Congregational church said to-day that General Grant would become a member of the church, and that he would probably become president of the board of trustees. Jay Gould, Sheppard Knapp, and other wealthy men would join. Dr. Newman, Grant's old pastor, has just become pastor of the church.

THE SMALL-POX.

WASHINGTON, January 4.—The President said to-day that he would probably send a special message to Congress, calling attention to the alarming prevalence of small-pox and the necessity for immediate legislation looking to its suppression.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Only five new cases of small-pox were reported yesterday, which is a decrease from previous days. The Health Commissioner says he is of the opinion that there is a letting up now, and in twenty-five days time there will be a very perceptible decrease of cases.

LABEL SUIT.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 4.—John J. Orton brought suit in the Circuit Court to-day against Matt Finch for libel and slander, claiming $30,000 damages on various counts. Both are well known lawyers.

MADISON INSANE ASYLUM.

MADISON, Jan. 4.—The legislative committee who have been inspecting the State hospital for the insane for several days, finished their labors this evening. Senator Simpson, chairman of the committee, reports that everything is in splendid condition, and that the action of the State board of supervisors in discharging over thirty officers and employees has in no way impaired the efficiency of the institution.

SHOT HIS WIFE.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 4.—John Toohey shot his wife this morning because she refused to follow her daughter to get him some whisky. The murderer immediately gave himself up. He was the father of one of the men killed in the recent mail explosion, and has been drinking heavily since that event.

A RIDE TO DEATH.

LA CROSSE, Jan. 4.—Hugh Healey, 21 years of age and unmarried, was run over and killed by a Southern Minnesota train at noon to-day, between Toykoff and Fountain. He was riding between a tender and the first car when the train broke loose. He fell, all the train passing over him.

Another Opinion of the Industrial School.

Waukesha Freeman.
Why all this talk about the Industrial School for Boys? Has anybody been killed? Has anybody been physically or mentally injured for life? No, a few of the worst boys in the State of Wisconsin have been punished, and I am quite surprised when I think how few boys there are that complain of being punished severely out of about nineteen hundred that have been in the school. I think there cannot be found more than a dozen that complain of being punished too severely. But who punishes these boys most severely? Is it the officers, superintendent of the school, or is it the parent or person that sends the boy to the school? I answer, the latter. I consider that the person who sends a boy to the Reform School inflicts on that boy a punishment far more severe than any other. I often hear men say that they would rather bury a child than place him in a reform school, but I never heard one say that he would rather lose his child than have him whipped. Who is it that complains so much about the punishment in the school? Is it the parents of these boys? No, they know too well what the officers and superintendent have to contend with; they have not a word to say. Is it anyone that has been in the school for years and had charge of a family? Not a bit of it, the family officer knows what "Reform School" is in the full sense of the term. People look at the school and I think they get some idea of what it is, but until they take a family of boys and undertake to govern them, they will know comparatively nothing about it. It is right to have humane societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals, but when you compare a wild, ungovernable boy to a vicious horse the comparison is nowhere. The horse can be managed by kindness, the boy in nine cases out of ten can not. But let us inquire a little further: What is this school for? Is it a place where boys are sent to be petted and babied? No, it is a school where boys are sent to be taught obedience to rules and laws, something that very few of them know anything about. But how is this to be done? Can a man govern a family of boys by coaxing them or by trying in a mild way to persuade them to do right? No it cannot be done; boys have got to know that they are obliged to obey, they will not do it of their own free will nor out of respect to any officer. I am aware that many people will differ with me, but experience is my teacher. Some will say that when a boy goes at a man with a knife, as some have done, that they should treat them kindly—love them. But, O what folly, what nonsense! Such boys should be punished severely as they deserve; this has been done and I believe nothing more. I well remember in the case of the boy Plank, that there has been so much said about, how, after he recovered from his mad fit (for it was nothing else that ailed him) he went hobbling around for a long time, but when he was let out of the Correction House he played about the yard as lively as any boy in the school.

What class of boys is it that the public have so much regard for and sympathize so deeply with? Is it some of those poor orphans that are in the school because they have no other place to go? Did you ever hear a person express any sympathy for this class of boys? No, it is the wild, ungovernable criminal, the boys that run away, steal, and commit all sorts of crimes. This is the class of boys that the public take up for. I am quite surprised at some people that I find in the country, who have so much sympathy for the boys. I well remember a case that happened not many months ago when a boy ran away and stopped at a certain house; the lady fed him and gave him some clothes. In talking with me she almost cried while telling how pale and haggard that boy looked. And yet he would rather kill a man than eat his dinner if he feared no punishment.

Having been engaged in the school at different times in the last seventeen years and with all the different superintendents that have been at the head of the institution, I think Mr. Sleep is the best man for the State and the school, and it is well that the State Board of Control sees fit to keep him; it is the best thing they can do.

In regard to the investigation that has been going on at the school, I am confident that there was not the slightest demand for it. The boys are well taken care of and when they are disobedient and ugly they have been punished and I think that is as it should be.

But some men tell us that the Legislature will take the case in hand this winter. If the Legislature has not any business of more importance to transact this winter than looking into the affairs of this school they had better stay at home.

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

Lord did not find the Gallipagos islands so much to his mind as did an Irishman, who let his ship depart without him, and set up his rest on one of these volcanic islets, dwelling there for seven years in a hovel of his own building, living upon tortoises, seals and fish, washed down with rum obtained from ships in exchange for the potatoes and pumpkins he busied himself in raising.
In 1818, an American sailor was taken off a desolate rock in the South seas by a boat's crew belonging to H. M. S. Queen Charlotte, whose attention had been drawn to the spot by the smoke of a seaweed fire. He had three years before been left there with three companions, all of whom had quickly succumbed, while he had lived on, sustaining life by feeding on the flesh of birds and drinking their blood.
The find of the Queen Charlotte's men was not so surprising as that of the Flemish seaman, Pickman, when, in 1816, his ship grounded near a small island rock between Scotland and Ireland. Some of his men, going in search of eggs, came upon a black hairy creature, who by signs entreated them to come to close acquaintance, and, finding the strange object to be really a man, they took him on board with them to tell the skipper his story. It was a melancholy one. He and two others, occupants of the passage boat between England and Ireland, had been captured and afterward cast off by a French privateer. Having nothing eatable save a little sugar with them, one of the three soon died of starvation, the others lived to be driven on the island, where they built a hut out of what was left of the boat, and for six weeks lived on seaweeds, sea-dogs, eggs, and water. Then the partners in misfortune parted company, one of them disappearing, leaving his forlorn friend in utter ignorance of his fate; he could only surmise that he had fallen into the sea while searching for eggs. Months passed, and the poor fellow lost all hope of deliverance. Winter came, and found him cladless. Compelled to keep within the hut for days together, he only kept starvation at bay by catching sea-mews, as hungry as himself, by baited sticks thrust through the openings of the hovel's walls. So he kept himself alive until the accidental advent of the London-bound Flemish timber ship released him from his dreary drudgery.—Chambers' Journal.

Shakespeare and the Bible.
There is a way that seemeth right to man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.—Prov. xvi., 25.
There is no vice so simple but assumes a more rank of virtue than all the other parts.—Mechanist of Venice, iv., 2.
How can ye, being evil, speak good things. (Seemingly virtues proceeding from an evil source are not genuine).—Mat. xii., 34.
Where an unclean mind carries virtuous qualities, their commendations go with pity—they are virtues and traitors, too.—All's Well That Ends Well, i., 1.
Another law in my members warms against the law of my mind.—Rom. vii., 23.
The fiend is at mine elbow and tempts me, saying: "Use your legs; take the start; run away." My conscience says: "No; do not run; scorn running with thy heels." "Badger," says the fiend. "Badger not," says my conscience.—Merchant of Venice, iii., 2.
He that increaseth knowledge, increaseth sorrow.—Ecclesiastes i., 18.
I had rather have a fool to make me merry, than experience to make me sad.—As You Like It, iv., 22.
I have a kind of self-love with you, but an unkind self, that it will leave you to be another's fool.—Twelfth Night, i., 1.
But whosoever shall keep the whole law and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all.—James ii., 10.
That those who are carrying the stamp, I say, of one defect, shall, in the general course, take corruption from that particular. The more they will hold all the noble substance of their debt.—Hamlet, i., 4.
Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer.—John iii., 15.
Hates any man the thing he would not kill?—Merchant of Venice, iv., 1.

I can now, though 61 years of age, do a fair and reasonable day's work.' Price $1.00, trial bottles 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and F. Sherer & Co.

Coercive Measures.
A Gloucester Irishman has a very bright boy, who reads the papers. The other morning the old man asked Patrick junior why he didn't return the change from the market. There was no answer except that the boy muttered: "The torment."
"Have you fed the pig, Patrick?"
A story star was the only reply. Then, for about fifteen minutes, there was a vision of a son closely pursued by a two-headed father, revolving around the house until the latter overtook the former and yanked him over a water-barrel.
"I was only trying to boycott on yez, father; for the sake of old Ireland I have me alone."
"It's a boy caught ye are," panted the old man. "I'll tache ye to thrive wid a home-ruler, and he reached out and gathered a barrel-stave.
The application of coercive measures could be heard four blocks off.—Gaston News.
